Chag-o-Charge™

Supports a healthy whole body response plus healthy immunity

Raw, wild chaga, certified organic maca root, white birch bark

Chag-o-Charge Power Drink is a truly unique whole food blend made from the most potent tree growth known, wild chaga. It also contains unrefined, sun-dried, certified organic, purple maca root and wild white birch bark. Chag-o-Charge is one of the most potent whole food complexes on earth, because it contains virtually every known nutrient in significant quantities. It is an excellent source of B vitamins and plant sterols as well as minerals. As the world's top source of superoxide dismutase, wild chaga has significant antioxidant capabilities, while also delivering betulin and betulinic acid. The potential benefits of the powerful nutrients in Chag-o-Charge have attracted great interest, spurring extensive research for developing new therapies.

Wild chaga grows on wild birch trees. It is only found in extremely remote and virgin areas, making it a truly wild medicine. From the wild trees it grows on, the chaga mushroom concentrates great quantities of nutrients and antioxidants. The vitality and power of wild trees are literally condensed into this mushroom. This may be why documented use of chaga exists as early as 100 BC in the Shen Nong Ben Cao Jing—the foundation of traditional Chinese medicine. Asian cultures have deemed chaga as the “King of all Herbs” and “A Gift from God.” In addition, Siberian cultures have used this mushroom for centuries, calling it the “Mushroom of Immortality.”

Chaga's antioxidant capacity is immense. At 45,590 ORAC units per container and 1,102 ORAC units per serving, it is a more powerful antioxidant than acai berry, elderberry, blackberry, or cranberry. This is due in part to its high concentration of the antioxidant enzyme superoxide dismutase (SOD). SOD acts only on superoxide, the most common free radical in the human body. Additionally, the body's ability to create SOD naturally declines steadily after 25 to 30 years of age. This is one reason chaga is an essential addition to a healthy diet for all ages.

Chag-o-Charge is a potent way to support excellent health—and it does so quickly. Wild white birch bark is added for additional nutrients and sterols, as it contains high amounts of betulin and betulinic acid. The blend also includes sun-dried, certified organic, Peruvian purple maca root, giving Chag-o-Charge a unique chocolaty-coffee taste. This combination is a healthy, one-of-a-kind tasty treat.

One cup of Chag-o-Charge per day provides significant amounts of calcium, magnesium, phosphorus, iron, potassium, and niacin. Wild Chaga mushroom is also available as a sublingual emulsion, Chag-o-Power, providing for immediate power and absorption. Take your Chag-o-Charge and Chag-o-Power daily for better health.

Directions: Add one level teaspoon of Chag-o-Charge to a cup of just-boiled water. For best results, add one level teaspoon of Chag-o-Charge to hot water and let sit unrefrigerated for 48 hours.
